Tons Of Nazi Loot To Be Sold At Auction In U.S. To Aid Hitler's Victims

Sale by auction of volumes of Nazi loot for the benefit of unrepatriable displaced persons will begin this month in the U.S. Details of the manner in which the material, consisting of thousands of items, from sets of chinaware and glassware to diamonds and jewelled watches, will be disposed were told by Ray C. Kramer, agent for the United Nations, in his unobtrusive offices at 119 West Fortieth Street.

He announced that Parke-Bernet Galleries, 30 East Fifty-seventh Street, New York, would begin to dispose of thousands of miscellaneous objects in two auctions. In the first, jewellery and diamonds will be offered, while in the second, silver, glass, china, and gold objects will be put up for bids.

Neither Mr. Kramer nor Leslie A. Hyam, vice-president of Parke-Bernet, who was present at the meeting in Mr. Kramer's office, would venture an estimate on the total value of the war loot. Rough estimates of the total worth of valuables captured by the United States in Austria and Germany approximated $4,000,000. However, what part of that property eventually will be brought into the United States, and what the potential market for it will be, is impossible to judge now, it was said.

Mr. Kramer, as chairman of the Advisory Liquidation Committee for the Preparatory Commission of the International Refugee Organization, has been occupied for the last [illegible] months with the task of preparing for the disposal of property, [illegible] as to ownership, exportation, [illegible] facing Mr. Kramer and his committee has been the disposition of the contents of thousands of cases of goods that have been arriving since the middle of December.

The problem was complicated in February with a ruling by the office of the Attorney General that the goods could not be admitted duty free to the United States. On top of that, it was ruled that the regular excise tax would have to be paid by persons who bought silver and other taxable items.

Assorted in Europe in the most rudimentary manner, the loot has been submitted to scrutiny by trained appraisers and cataloguers in New York, to separate the good from the bad, the valuable from the worthless.

[illegible] announcement of the imminent sale came after months of work by Mr. Kramer and a merchandising advisory committee on the myriad problems involved in the disposal of such a heterogeneous mass of loot.

Some simple transactions, such as the disposal of quantities of gold, silver and platinum already had been undertaken abroad. It was revealed that more than $1,000,000 for displaced-person aid had resulted from the sale of such metals there.

However, the herculean task [illegible] and governments having applications.

Baptists Score Truman On Israel

The 8,000 delegates to the ninety-first annual session of the Southern Baptist Convention in Memphis, Tenn., overwhelmingly voted against a motion to commend President Truman for officially recognizing the new Jewish state, Israel.

From the remarks made for and against the proposal and from the attitude of the delegates it was apparent that the defeat of the motion stemmed entirely from a desire to rebuke President Truman for "playing politics with the Jewish vote" during a national election year.

[illegible] and then he also [illegible] had lost the Jewish vote, so he recognized Israel twenty-one minutes after it had been declared a state by the Jews. It was strictly a political measure."

In a standing vote less than 100 delegates rose to signify favor for the motion. Virtually all stood in opposition.

On the other hand, "President Truman recognized the State of Israel immediately after it was proclaimed because it had a legitimate claim to statehood", David A. Morse, Under Secretary of Labor, said in New York.

Calls AFL Censure Of Britain Official

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, speaking officially for the 8,000,000 members of his organization, assailed for the first time the British Labor Government for its policy on the new state of Israel.

The veteran American labor leader attacked his counterparts in the British Government for following "Tory" tactics and demanded immediate British recognition of the new state to protect it from Arab invasion. He called, too, for decisive British action to safeguard and establish the infant republic.

At a convention session of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union, AFL, at the New Yorker Hotel, in New York, Mr. Green made known his belief that the United States should lift the arms embargo now imposed on the Middle East and urged the dispatch by the United Nations of troops to quell the warfare there.

"We call on the Government of Great Britain to change its attitude," he declared. "It is difficult for us to understand its policies. We had hoped and believed that when the Tory Government was replaced by a Government of the working people, we could count on that Government to stand up.

"But after a time, when we examine its record, we discover it has failed to measure up to our expectations. We call on the Labor Government now to act as it preaches —to recognize, protect and help establish Israel."

In a press conference later, Mr. Green pointed out specifically that his remarks represented official federation policy. But he also stressed that his criticisms of Britain [illegible]

Aubrey S. Eban, thirty-three-year-old war veteran and an authority on modern Arabic literature, was appointed by the provisional government of Israel as its representative at the United Nations.

The appointment was communicated to the U. N. by Moshe Shertok, foreign minister of Israel. It means that the world's youngest state will be represented by the youngest diplomat ever to handle the affairs of a government, provisional or otherwise, in its dealing with the U. N.

Israel is already on record with an application for U. N. membership. Until it is admitted, however, it cannot have a delegate accredited to the U.N., but must handle its business through a representative who can speak for the government whenever it is invited to take part in U. N. meetings.

Mr. Eban, who has already appeared for the Jewish Agency for Palestine in the General Assembly, is a native of Capetown, South Africa. He was educated at Cambridge University, England, where he was graduated with Triple First Honors and became a faculty member for research in Arabic and Persian literature.

During the war he served with the British Army first as an infantry officer and later as a political officer attached to general

Many Czechs Seek U.S. Entry

Thirty-four war refugees, some of whom feared that their exit visas might not be extended by the new Government in Czechoslovakia after they expired, arrived at La Guardia Field from Prague aboard a plane that had been chartered from Pan American World Airways by the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee.

Although all had Czechoslovak passports, some of the party, which included twenty women and seven children, spoke only Polish or other non-Czech languages. A small group of relatives and friends were at the airport to meet them.

Alexander Magidoff, poet and dock supervisor of the United Service for New Americans, who was on hand to aid the travelers, said some of the refugees were entering the United States under quotas and others came as students with visitors' visas. "The Czech

"I ALWAYS WANTED ONE," SAID TRUMAN OF WEIZMANN'S T'ORAH

The President of Israel, who is recovering from an illness and wore dark glasses, leaned heavily on the arm of an assigned aide, Brig. Gen. Charles T. Lanham, as he entered the White House. An assistant to Dr. Weizmann carried a large gift box wrapped with colored paper and ribbons.

In the White House rose garden President Truman opened the gift. It was a torah, or scroll containing in Hebrew the first five books of the Old Testament. It was covered with a blue velvet mantle, embellished with the Star of David.

"I always wanted one," said President Truman in accepting the scroll.

In deference to Dr. Weizmann's wishes, White House correspondents spared him the usual standing-up press conference. Photographers made pictures without flash bulbs to spare his eyes. The news conference was held in the garden of Blair House, where Dr. Weizmann had spent the night as a guest of the Government.

Israeli Avoid Magazine Award

[illegible] withdrawal of the representa[illegible] of the State of Israel from [illegible] took notice of the controversy surrounding the function and said the Israeli representatives were withdrawing their acceptance of an invitation to attend the magazine's annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to avoid involving Israeli in the controversy.

Dr. Guy Emery Shipler, editor of The Churchman, had announced that a special citation would be given the State of Israel after Secretary of State George C. Marshall had refused to accept the magazine's annual award. Dr. Shipler asserted that Mr. Marshall changed his mind about accepting the award when an anti-Communist newsletter published an attack on the magazine and its editor.

Major Eban had been invited not only to attend but to accept the citation, it was learned. When it was pointed out to a spokesman for Major Eban that the statement did not say whether the citation would be accepted in absentia or rejected, the spokesman said the question of accepting the citation in absentia had not yet arisen and would be considered when it did. Dr. Shipler's offer to present the award to Mr. Marshall in absentia had led the Secretary explicitly to decline it.

"The Churchman will, however, give a special citation to the new State of Israel as originally planned because the paper has long stood for the Jewish aspirations in Palestine. It will continue to give its support to an independent Israel."

Later Dr. Shipler added that the citation would be read by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of the New York area of the Methodist Church.

In his statement, Dr. Shipler said:

"Insidious distortions concerning The Churchman is another example of an organized attack on the freedom of the press which we are defending against individuals and groups who do not subscribe to the principles of American democracy.

"The Churchman has been in existence since 1804 and its record in defense of democracy and Christianity stands in its files. We are proud of that record. The recipients of The Churchman Awards—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Bernard Baruch, Henry A. Wallace and General (Dwight D.) Eisenhower —were familiar with our policy and accepted the award with enthusiasm.

"The Churchman will continue to fight for the truth for which it has always stood in spite of organized

Weizmann Hopes For Friendship With Arabs, Great Britain

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, seventy-three-year-old President of the Republic of Israel, sailed for Europe with the hope that his country would soon live in friendship with the Arabs and Great Britain.

Dr. Weizmann, who was accompanied on the Cunard liner Mauretania by his wife, went to Cherbourg, France, to pass three weeks in Paris before proceeding to Palestine. Mrs. Weizmann expressed sorrow that the British attitude toward the new Jewish state was such as to make the Weizmanns pass up a stop-over in London.

"It is a sense of chagrin for us that the country we owe so much to and to which we have given the best we had has failed to recognize Israel," she said. "We don't wish to come to England on sufferance." Dr. and Mrs. Weizmann still are British citizens. They will become Israeli citizens upon reaching Palestine.

In amplifying her remarks, Mrs. Weizmann spoke of her son, Michael, who was killed while serving with the Royal Air Force during the last war. She said he had enlisted shortly after the Munich agreement. Another son, Benjamin, she added, had served with a British anti-aircraft unit and suffered shell-shock.

Dr. Weizmann received a police escort from the Waldorf-Astoria to Pier 90, at West Fiftieth Street, New York, and two detectives from the Special Service Bureau were at the pier with him. Dr. Weizmann, who is ill, was too exhausted to answer questions about new developments in Palestine, but he made his way to the ship's sun deck with the aid of friends to speak briefly about his hopes for Israel.

"We have reached the culmination of a great ideal," he said. "It has been a long, hard road, beset with many difficulties. We still have hard work, dangers and difficulties. We'll have to watch our step. The hope of Israel is to live in friendship with the Arabs and the British people. We are grateful to the President of the United States, the government and people of the United States who have been in sympathy with our aims. We are an old nation: God has blessed us. With the blessings of God, we will succeed."

Other passengers on the Mauretania applauded Dr. Weizmann as he stood on the sun deck, wearing dark glasses to protect his eyes, his head bowed.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Provisional President of the new state of Israel, said that President Truman had given him "some sort of hope" that the United States would lift its embargo on arms shipments to the Jews in the Holy Land war.

After a half-hour conference with the President at the White House on May 25, Dr. Weizmann told reporters Mr. Truman also encouraged him on prospects for a $90,000,000 to $100,000,000 loan for military and economic aid to Israel. Dr. Weizmann said he hoped for favorable action on the embargo in the "not too distant future."

The President of the Provisional Council of Israel said the loan he proposed to the President would be used partly for military supplies, including airplanes, and

Montreal Meetings

● Lyon W. Jacobs, K.C., former chairman of the Law Committee of the City of Montreal, was unanimously chosen as honorary legal advisor of the Montreal Ex-Naval Men's Association, of which Admiral P. W. Nelles, C.B., R.C.N., is honorary patron.

● The newly-formed Montreal Committee of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews met in the Windsor Hotel for the second time to consider the objectives of the organization and to take preliminary steps toward setting up an office here and implementing a program of activities already undertaken by other committees in Winnipeg, Hamilton, Oshawa and Toronto. Named co-chairmen of the committee were Senator Leon Mercier Gouin, William Birks, and Samuel Bronfman. Gerard Pelletier has been appointed executive secretary of the organization. Calling for the enlistment in the committee of all those present at the meeting, Senator Gouin exclaimed: "Let us see what we can do by joining hands for the cause of mankind!" He said one of the aims of the Montreal committee should be "to educate public opinion against fascist ideas." Rev. Richard Jones, executive director of the Canadian Council, declared that "as the Council is spiritually motivated, it can stand as a bulwark against Communism." It could also help raise the standard of living in this country by uniting businessmen in a common effort, he said. He said he expects the budget of the Canadian Council will eventually be $50,000 a year. Funds are being subscribed by many individuals and a number of corporations, he added. It is hoped, the executive director continued, that a national board of directors consisting of 50 leading citizens from all parts of the Dominion will be organized out of local committees as they are formed. There would be three national co-chairmen, Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish. There would be various committees and conveniences under this board. The Canadian Council is affiliated with the National Conference of Christians and Jews in the United States.

Mr. Shean Is Eighty

Al Shean of Gallagher & Shean fame, celebrated his eightieth birthday but — "absolutely, Mr. Gallagher" — he did not consider it a noteworthy event.

"What difference does it make? I don't feel more than 50 or 60; my health and appetite are perfect; they're still sending me scripts for plays and movies. I'll keep on acting till the day I die, and that's a long way distant."

Mr. Shean, who was delighting vaudeville fans with his late partner, Ed Gallagher, twenty years ago, was reading over scripts when the interviewer arrived. He has plenty of work ahead, Mr. Shean declared. One of his stage plays, and he will play in that. And he is mulling over an offer to play in a movie about vaudeville life.

Looking as spry and alert as he says he feels, Mr. Shean scoffed at the sentimentalism of old-timers who gather in such places as the Lamb's Club and "tell stories I was telling fifty years ago". He also looks down on sentimentalists who say vaudeville will come back.

"Vaudeville's absolutely dead", he said. "It will never come back. Kerosene lamps and horse cars will never come back. It's all part of evolution and the trend of the times. It's true when they say time marches on."

Mr. Shean said there were two highlights in his life. His vaudeville act with Mr. Gallagher—and the famous song that took him fifteen minutes to write—was one of those. The other, he declared, is still now remembered. "What difference does it make? I don't feel more than 50 or 60; my health and appetite are perfect; they're still sending me scripts for plays and movies. I'll keep on acting till the day I die, and that's a long way distant."

Mr. Shean, who was delighting vaudeville fans with his late partner, Ed Gallagher, twenty years ago, was reading over scripts when the interviewer arrived. He has been a Jew, he is fortunate that priests told him: "You're a better priest than I am."

"I'm doing all right for myself," Mr. Shean said. "I still keep busy. I visit the agencies and I watch the fights on television. Maybe I haven't much money. But I don't want to be a millionaire. When I had a lot of money everyone wanted to take it from me. If you don't have so much, nobody bothers you."

Research On Jewish Communities Of The Middle East

The hardships which Jews from the countries of the Middle East have endured as a result of anti-Semitism may perhaps have been overshadowed by the greater afflictions of European Jewry, but they are none the less real for all that. Repressive legislation affecting their political, social and economic status, accompanied only too often by physical persecution, makes it urgently necessary for as many as possible of the approximately million of them to be transferred to Palestine.

They will, of course, not be the first Jews to have come to Palestine from the countries of the Middle East. In point of fact, before the influx of Jews from Europe following the emergence of modern Zionism, these Jews from Turkey and from Yemen, from Syria and from Iraq, from Morocco and from Tunis, from Tripolitania and from Algiers formed the largest proportion of the Jewish population of the country. Today they constitute about 20% of the Yishuv.

They add an exotic and colourful note to a community already distinguished by the heterogeneous elements of which it is composed, and are a source of never-failing interest to the European newcomer to Palestine. Dark-skinned, bright-eyed, dressed in every variety of oriental costume and talking either Arabic or a Hebrew such as the Patriarchs must have spoken, they are to all appearances as different from the Jews of the west as are the Chinese from the Anglo-Saxon peoples.

Centuries of life in the more backward, undeveloped parts of the world, among races who have until recently had only the slenderest contacts with European civilization, have naturally left their mark on these oriental Jews. The Ish communities of the Middle East was recently established under the auspices of the Hebrew University. The initiative in the matter was taken by the Vaad Leumi (Jewish National Council), the Federation of Jewish Labour in Palestine and the Jewish National Workers' Alliance in America, all of which are jointly financing the project.

The Institute is headed by J. Ben-Zvi, president of the Vaad Leumi and a member of the Hebrew University's Executive Council, who has devoted himself to a study of the history and customs of the Jewish communities in the Middle East. He has written many books on the subject, including a history of the Samaritans. Mr. Ben-Zvi will be assisted by Dr. J. W. Hirschberg, a research fellow at the Hebrew University who has chosen the history of the Jews in Arabia and other Moslem countries as his particular field of studies. Dr. Hirschberg's translation from Arabic of the collected poems of As-Samaual Ibn Adiya was the first translation ever to have been done of the works of this famous Jewish-Arab poet of the 6th century. Two years ago Mossad Bialik published a scholarly work by Dr. Hirschberg on the history of the Jews in Arabia.

The Institute will be supervised by a committee composed of the Chairman of the Hebrew University's Institute of Jewish Studies, the Director of the School of Oriental Studies, and another member of the University's staff, to be elected bi-annually, whose work is related to that of the new institution.

The activities of the Institute will be directed in the main to the collection of information and documents (the majority of the latter are in Arabic) regarding Oriental communities in many of the countries of North Africa, whilst an appreciable number is probably to be found also in America where there is a large community of oriental Jews.

Most of them have become the possessions of certain families who either prize them so highly that they are reluctant to part with them or even to have them copied or photographed (requests for such copies or photographs have been made in the past by the Hebrew University, but without success), or who, on the other hand, have placed their value so low that they have even used them for wrapping purposes in their shops, or have given them for a small fee to passing tourists or journalists in search of "copy".

The first category of owners has the merit of at least having preserved the documents, even though it may place obstacles in the way of the Institute's acquiring them. The second category, unfortunately, has caused the loss of much material that would probably have been of very great value in the task now being undertaken. Nevertheless, every effort will be made to secure all the documents available and to ensure that the record

Women To Be Aides In Health Work

A national mental hygiene program, in which 70,000 members of the National Council of Jewish Women in 300 centers and junior sections all over the U.S. may serve as volunteer aides, was announced by Mrs. Joseph M Welt, of Detroit, Mich., national president, in a statement released at Council headquarters, 1819 Broadway, New York.

An advisory committee headed by Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey, former editor of The American Journal of Psychiatry, and made up of [illegible] and the National Committee on Mental Hygiene.

Possible volunteer services outlined in the program include working to promote community-wide educational campaigns, encouraging the organization of local and state mental hygiene societies, assisting in the development of professionally staffed therapeutic and preventive clinical services, extension of services in existing clinics and furthering adoption of mental hygiene ideas by other community agencies.

Sixty sections of the council already are sponsors for or planning local programs of education and service in mental hygiene, it was reported. In setting up their schedules they receive guidance from [illegible] needed services and long neglected reforms in the field of mental hygiene." The volunteer assistance provided through the organization's program will serve to broaden the community mental hygiene programs mandated by the provisions of the National Mental Health Act, she said.

ORT Tool Supply Corporation has opened in Tel Aviv to supply artisans and various collective workshops in Palestine with machinery and tools; new machines and replacements, small workshops and collective settlements, trade schools in need of additional equipment, and in so far as possible, collective agricultural settlements and individual farmers. The machinery will be obtained from various industrial countries with the assistance of the offices of the World ORT Union, as well as from local importers, doing everything possible to utilize machinery made in Palestine in order to help in the development of Palestinian industry.

A Child Went Singing

"What, in your lifetime has caused you the greatest satisfaction?" an old Chinese philosopher was asked. "A child," he replied, "that went down the road singing, after asking me the way."

For 38 years the Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Associations have pointed the way to Montreal's Jewish youth—training the young, inspiring the old, bringing health and joy and self-realization to all who have come within its gates; and playing a leading role in the development of thousands of informed, self-reliant Canadian citizens. Sharing in this work, will bring you the greatest satisfaction. Give with a kind heart to an outstanding cause.

MARRIAGES

FINEWAX-FINEWAX

The marriage of Miss Mollie Finewax, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Finewax, 129 D'Arcy Street, to Paul Finewax, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Morris Finewax, of Italy, took place at the bride's home, on Sunday, May 9, at seven o'clock, Rabbi D. Monson officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a powder-blue gabardine suit, and matching hat, and a corsage of red roses, and carried a Bible decorated with red roses. Miss Sara Finewax, sister of the bride, was maid of honour, wearing a black and pink print silk dress, and a corsage of red roses. Harry Finewax, brother of the bride, was best man. Mrs. Finewax, mother of the bride, received in a black and white print dress, and a corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. David Fine and family, of Brooklyn, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wolf, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cohen, and Herman Wolf, all of Cleveland, Ohio, were guests.

RAY-MAGERMAN

net gown, and matching headdress, and carried a cascade of pink roses. Andrea Leslie and Lawrence Cherniak were trainbearers, the former wearing a pink taffeta dress and matching poke bonnet; the latter wearing a navy-blue Eton suit. Linda Cherniak was flower girl. Her powder-blue taffeta dress was made with a round neckline and full skirt, and she had a matching poke bonnet, and carried a nosegay of roses. Henry Ritterspoon was best man and Samuel Shefsky, Daniel Leslie, Leslie Cherniak, Alfred Magerman, Irving Mortin, George Martin, Ernest Skrow, Gerald Shefsky, Albert Pasternack, Stanley Ray, Irving Erenberg, Melvin Rotstein, Leonard Finkler, and Norman Citron were ushers. Harry Magerman was in full dress, and carried the ring on a white satin pillow. Mrs. Magerman, mother of the bride, received, wearing an American Beauty-coloured gown, and white roses in her hair; Mrs. Ray, mother of the groom, wearing a gold-coloured gown, and Talisman roses in her hair. The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Huntsville, the former wearing a a tomato-red gabardine suit and coat, with black accessories, and a corsage of white roses. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. [illegible] New York.

MOSES-MORAYNISS

The marriage of Anne Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving M. Morayniss, to Raymond Moses, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Moses, took place on Sunday, April 18, at half-past five o'clock, at Shaarei Shomayim Synagogue, Rabbi Judah Washer officiating, assisted by Cantor A. Steinberg. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a white satin gown, with full-length paneling down the front, sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, and bouffant skirt, embroidered with seed pearl beads. Her tiara, trimmed with seed pearl beads, caught a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a cascade of Calla lilies. Miss Evelyn Morayniss, sister of the bride, was maid of honour, wearing an off-the-shoulder pink satin gown, with fitted bodice, matching gloves, and full hooped skirt. Her matching pink tiara was trimmed with pink roses, and she carried a cascade of the same flowers. The bridesmaids were Mesdames Leo Broderson and Joseph Moses, and Misses Annette Lockett and Renee Morayniss was junior bridesmaid. They were ice-blue satin gowns similar in style to that of the maid of honour, with matching headdresses trimmed with red roses, and carried cascades of red roses. Bernard A. Moses, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Leo Broderson, Joseph Moses, and Sydney Morayniss. Mrs. Morayniss, mother of the bride, received in a tuscat-brown gown which had a draped skirt and sweetheart neckline, and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Moses, mother of the groom, received in a long-sleeved blue crepe gown, trimmed with silver sequins and beading, and a corsage of red roses. The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York, and Atlantic City, N.J., the former wearing a navy ballerina suit, pink shortie coat, navy accessories, and navy hat, trimmed with spring flowers and covered with green tulle. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. Lockett, of Shamokin, Pa.; Misses Helen and Florence Mac, of Scranton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. C. Stromberg and Mrs. M. Hochman, of Beckley, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. A. Shenberg and Miss Sonia Greenberg, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Weingarten and family, of Detroit, Mich.; and Mr. and Mrs. S. Kendal and family, of Hamilton.

It's the Cordtex Uplift

that Places the Gothic Bandeau In a Class by Itself!

THE minute you put it on you notice the difference! And no other bra has it! There's no drag on shoulder-straps! The bust is actually lifted from underneath by firm stiffened Cordtex inserts in a natural comfortable way. And the result is the high rounded bosom—so right for today's fashions!

Whether you choose a bandeau, or the diaphragm-controlling long-line, there is a Gothic Bra, in your size, style and figure type, at the experienced corsetiere's. . .

WEIZMANN

By Sylvan Gotshal, Chairman, United Jewish Appeal Of Greater New York

The following appeared as a letter to the New York Herald Tribune:

Let no one underestimate the privilege of living in this stimulating, challenging though unhappy era. Before our very eyes we see taking shape the outlines of a great man whose services to humanity and to his people will only be appraised hundreds of years after his passing.

Chaim Weismann, the man of whom all other man of every race and creed can be proud; a simple man, a good man, one with whom any human being can talk, whether saturated with the advantages of education or unfortunately handicapped by lack of the benefits of study and learning. Only in long stretches across the desert of time does a name appear whose stature is such that men are reverent not so much because of tangible accomplishments but because of the universal recognition of basic spiritual and humanitarian values.

Chaim Weismann, the statesman: Does history repeat itself? Can a comparison be made between the tribulations that faced this man and those that faced George Washington at the time that this great nation was carved out of the wilderness? It does not take too great an imagination to compare the conflict between the patriots and Tories, the hardships of Valley Forge, the triumph of freedom over tyranny which faced the Franklins, the Washingtons, the Jeffersons at the time of the creation of this nation, with the tragedies, the deprivations, the tasks now facing the Weismanns, the Ben-Gurions, the Shertoks in carving an island of freedom in the sea of feudalism that exists in the Middle East. If it be said that the colonists faced merely one enemy — the British, had many enemies — the Alleghany Mountains which stood between them and the vast plains of the West, the savagery of the Indians, the blackness of ignorance and superstition which faced all humanity as a result of the medieval period, the tenacity with which men clung to the belief that a monarchy was the only way to produce a good society. Similarly, the Jews in their fight for freedom are not merely fighting the Arabs; they are fighting the darkness that has rested upon that section of the world ever since the Roman era.

Any one who has visited Palestine and the Middle East knows that Palestine stands as a lighthouse of modern thought in a sea of darkness and ignorance. Whatever may be the racial background of the various groups, 80,000,000 people located around Palestine cry out for the cleanliness, the clarity of thinking, the benefits that come from modern knowledge, that alone can bring these people out of the disease and blindness which affects not only their bodies but also their thinking and their outlook for the future. Weismann, like Washington, has spent his life attempting to create a beacon of hope in that section of the world not just for the Jews but for all people who will be ready to bathe in its light.

Weismann, the Jew: Those who know him realize that he possesses all of those qualities which the book beloved by Christian and Jew alike —the Bible—crystallizes in man as the image of his Maker. In those things of the spirit, in those qualities which can only be described as the historical heritage of the people who gave the world its greatest book, its greatest teachers; in those qualities humanity of whatever race or creed should proudly admit [illegible] and disrespect. The actions of the Jewish people in Palestine, their courage, their tenacity, their ingenuity, their faith in their future, must command the respect of every one everywhere. The respect thus created is just beginning.

Weismann understands his people; he understands their good qualities; he understands their weaknesses — the weaknesses that primarily have come from years of poverty and subjection, weaknesses which are the same in every race were they forced to live under similar circumstances. It is the strength of the Jews, their generosity, their fairness, their abilities, their readiness to co-operate, their readiness to make their benefits available to other people in the Middle East — these are the things that Weismann will make apparent to the world, and as a result of which people of Jewish faith will everywhere feel a sense of gratitude and security. The Jews of Palestine, giving full play to their virtues as the inheritors of the spirituality of the Old Testament, have so much to share with other peoples. So much has been taken in the hundreds of years that have passed since the fall of Jerusalem, so much still abides, so much upon which to build and to create.

Weismann, the President of the new State of Israel, is a leader that the world needs; a leader whose presence at the Council of Nations may help to turn the enormous forces of the atomic era away from destruction to the ways of peace for every one. All hail the new President, a great human, a great statesman, a great Jew.

OGILVIE MIXES

ADD WATER — MIX — BAKE — THAT'S ALL!

CLASS IN COOKERY

SPONGE CAKE

six eggs, separated
one cup sugar
one tablespoon mazola
two level teaspoons baking powder
a few grains salt
one and one-half cups flour

Beat the whites of eggs with the salt until very stiff. Add the sugar and beat well again, until shiny and smooth. Then add the mazola and the sifted flour, which has been mixed with the baking powder. Pour into a greased pyrex baking dish, about twelve inches by eight inches, which has been lined with wax paper, and bake in an oven of 350 degrees for about an hour.

Special Frosting

two teaspoons butter
one-half pound icing sugar
one teaspoon cold coffee
two squares chocolate, melted in the top of a double boiler

Mix the above ingredients until you have a smooth paste and spread over the top and sides of the cake. Using a salad fork, draw lines across the cake from left to right, and from back to front. In the squares thus formed, place a half cherry or a small piece of nut, for decoration.

Mrs. I. Brott,
839 Stuart Avenue, Montreal.

ORANGE CAKE

one cup sour milk
grated rind of one orange one-quarter pound dates juice of one orange
two cups flour
one-quarter pound butter
one cup sugar
one egg
two cups flour
one teaspoon baking powder
pinch of salt

Cream butter and sugar. Add the egg. Sift flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt together, and add alternately with the sour milk. Add rind of orange and dates, which have been cut into small pieces. Bake in 350-degree oven, for about twenty-five minutes. When cake is removed from oven, pour juice of orange over it, while still hot.

Mrs. Max Levine,
320 Lonsdale Road, Toronto.

RESEARCH

It is not merely fortuitous that the Institute has been set up in Jerusalem, and at the Hebrew University. No city in the world and no other institution could have provided so appropriate a setting for the new project. Jerusalem itself is, as it were, a laboratory for this research work, for here, living in almost complete social and economic units, are to be found Jews from every country of the Middle East. The information to be gathered from a study of their lives and from their close contacts with their fellow-Jews in other countries is of immeasurable importance for complementing the data acquired from the documentary material. And it is fitting indeed that the work should be centralized in the Hebrew University, that University which has become the focal point of Jewish studies throughout the world and which is steadily on its way to becoming the authority in the future on all Jewish subjects.

The new Institute will serve a purpose of considerable value from a scientific point of view; at the same time its work will have an important bearing on the immediate future. For a knowledge of the background of the people with whom it will deal must inevitably be of the greatest service to those charged with the task of assisting and absorbing them when they arrive in Palestine, and of raising their cultural level. It will make for better understanding of their problems, psychological as well as practical, and thus for reducing the difficulties of integrating them in the life of the Yishuv.

ferred to no single member of the British Government. However, he expressed the view that the House of Commons, "representing the people," could play a larger role in shaping that country's foreign policy.

"I am happy over the fact that the Jewish people have at last won a great victory," he said in his address. "I recognized the Republic of Israel long before any Government ever recognized it."

"Since the establishment of that republic and its recognition, we declare our unyielding purpose that no one is going to destroy it. It is going to live forever. We call upon the United States to accept the challenge, to measure up to the standard set for the United Nations.

"Let them send enough troops from the United Nations into Israel to prevent it from being invaded. The American Federation of Labor calls upon our Government immediately to lift the embargo on arms. Let them have the ammunition and the weapons to defend themselves. That's an equal requirement with recognition. If you recognize a Government—than help it to live!"

Speaking to 1,000 women members of Ivriah, an agency to foster religious education of American Jewish children, Mr. Morse declared that Israel "has a legal and moral basis in the historic heritage of the Jewish people—in the Balfour Declaration of 1917, in the League of Nations mandate, in the findings of successive commissions of inquiry, and finally in the partition recommendation which was adopted by the United Nations General Assembly in 1947."

Deploring the strife in the Holy Land, Mr. Morse told the women attending Ivriah's twenty-second annual luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel that a peaceful solution must be found by the United Nations.

Commentaries

By Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi

The Land Of Israel

On that day the Lord made a covenant with Abraham, saying: "Unto thy seed have I given this land from the River Egypt unto the great River Euphrates". (Genesis 15:18).

I am pleased that for the new Jewish state the name of Israel has been chosen. It is a happy choice, indeed. The name means God's striver and harks back to the time when Jacob wrestled with the angel at the crossing of the river Jabok (Genesis 32:29). The children of Israel were thus called Bene Yisroel, the people of Israel, who were regarded as descendants of Jacob-Israel.

This name indicates common blood and common interests and it proved to be a powerful influence in molding the scattered tribes of the Hebrews into a single nation. Primarily Israel is to be traced back to that glorious past, the golden time of Saul and David, 1030 B.C.E.—900 B.C.E. Under David, the city of Jerusalem became the capital. Solomon then built the Holy Temple, and thus Jerusalem became the central shrine unto which people from all parts of Palestine went on pilgrimages.

The Land of Israel ever occupied a central place in Jewish life and thought. Abraham, when he purchased the cave, Machpela, for the burial of his dear departed, obtained permanent title to a portion in the land of Canaan. Added to this stake we keep in mind the divine promise made unto Abraham: "And the land which thou seest I give to thee and thy seed forever." This basic sacred promise made to the progenitor of the Jewish people constitutes the refrain running through the whole book of Genesis and is confirmed to the other patriarchs. Thus Joseph's last request is that his bones may be brought back from Egypt for interment in the land of Canaan.

Palestine has ever constituted the Jewish promise and the Jewish hope. The Exodus to Egypt out of necessity was considered a misfortune. The Exodus from Egypt back to Palestine constituted a fulfillment. The story of the Land of Israel is well known to the average biblical student. We think of Joshua with his military struggles making possible the possession of the land, we reflect upon the period of the Judges and that glorious epoch

We reflect upon the great prophets of Israel who, though preaching universalism, ever spoke in terms of love of the land of Israel. This land gave spiritual strength to the people. Mighty nations such as Syria, Egypt, and Rome, time and again devastated the land, but Israel ever remained on the land it so loved. The final destruction of Jewish national independence in Palestine came in the year 70 of the Common Era and Jews became the wandering people over the face of the earth.

But, wandering over the earth, the Jew carried Palestine within his heart. For he knew that the spiritual treasures of Israel which he carried with him were produced in the land of his fathers which came to be known as the Holy Land. The Bible, the prayer book, the Talmud, the Masorah, the foundations of Hebrew poetry, the Midrash, all of the highest values in the religious and literary activities were all bound up with the soil of Palestine.

All through the centuries of Jewish wandering, the wanderer was happy to return, if possible, to the Land of Israel. He rejoiced that amidst all conditions and circumstances some Jews ever remained in the Holy Land. Thus, even under the cruelty of the Romans, Jews clung to Palestine. Under Moslem invasion, in the face of Christian crusades, Jewish communities dared to carry on in the Land of Israel. In the Middle Ages great Jewish luminaries, such as Judah Halevi and Maimonides, came to the land. In the Middle Ages hundreds of rabbis and pietists came from many parts of Europe to establish settlements.

We think how, after the expulsion of Spain, the Sephardic Jews sought settlement in the Land of Israel. We recall how in the 18th century the Jewish mystics settled in Safad and made it the center of Jewish mysticism. And certainly through the 17th, 18th and 20th centuries, we witness great movements of colonization in Palestine, with the result that under the influence of political Zionism, there has been born the yearning for Jewish statehood and the dream of Jewish national independence restored.

Judaism, the religion of Israel, has ever been bound up with the Land of Israel. The Bible is best understood in terms of the land of Israel. The Hebrew calendar, the Hebrew language, all these have significance primarily in terms of the Land of Israel. Our major festivals and feasts have their historical setting in the Land of Israel. Palestine permeates all of Jewish life.

The very symbols, as the use of wine on festive and happy occasions, dramatize the vineyards of Palestine. The very Talith used in worship harks back to the garment worn in the land of Canaan. The breaking of the glass at the marriage ceremony recalls the destruction of the Holy Temple in Jerusalem. The turning eastward by the Jew during worship has ever dramatized Israel's love for the Land of Israel. And in the hour of death when the body is returned to Mother Earth, together with the earthly remains, there is interred the physical dust of Eretz Israel.

Thus, from birth to death, Jewish life is surrounded by the very symbolism and the influence of the Holy Land, and the hope of the restoration of Zion as once more the centre of Jewish life. The Jew has ever looked upon Palestine to be restored not as a place of refuge but as the land of greater promise and greater glory for Judaism and the Jewish people.

We who live in this historic hour of Israel reborn are indeed a fortunate generation. What have we merited that we should deserve this great historic privilege?

What matter the debates at Lake Success and the mischievous behaviour of Arab people? What matter the duplicity of statesmen and the connivance of nations still clinging to worn out patterns of imperialism? One fact is sure — Israel exists! Israel exists because of the passionate patriotism that could not be extinguished by two thousand years of disappointments and wandering. Israel exists in spite of breach of promises made by powerful nations. No power on earth today can break Israel's love for the land of Israel. The Land of Israel is a reality.

We deplore the bloodshed and the sacrifice of life. But this is not due to the fault of Israel but rather to the lack of wisdom on the part of nations who failed Israel. The hour is not too late as yet for the nations to make recompense and to repent by giving to Israel reborn encouragement that Israel may flourish and its people continue on the basis of its glorious history to give new insights and patterns of righteous living for all mankind.

Typical was the work going on at the Parke-Bernet Galleries in preparation for the sale. Jewellery was being divided into 400 catalogue lots, with three to four pieces to a lot.

To be included in the sale of jewellery will be a large, miscellaneous collection of unset diamonds and other precious stones, pearl necklaces, gold and jewelled watches, and quantities of Victorian jewellery of varying types of semi-precious stones.

Meanwhile, the International Refugee Organization and Parke-Bernet representatives at the Sofia Brothers Warehouse, Sixty-first Street and Columbus Avenue, were examining and cataloguing the contents of thirty-five of 136 large cases there for their inspection. The exact contents of the boxes were unknown until opened.

Laid out on tables were dozens of tinted and cut glass goblets and liqueur glasses, decorative porcelain vases, Bohemian cut sapphire blue and ruby glassware, Meissen, Dresden, Herend, Rosenthal, and Vienna porcelain statuettes and figure groups, eighteenth and nineteenth century continental pewter flagons and tureens.

Supervising the warehouse unpackings were Carl Dauterman, Parke-Bernet cataloguer, and Mrs. Fulton Worden, IRO representative.

At Staten Island, where thousands of cases of goods remain to be unpacked, the inspection of silver has been taking place. An estimated 22 tons is on hand, marked and unmarked, used and unused, plain and ornate, consisting of every conceivable shape of platter, tureen, tray, and dish, and great quantities of candlesticks, vases, [illegible]

[illegible] medium, and the results of the June sales at Parke-Bernet will be watched with a view to setting the pattern for future sales all over the country.

Touching on the underlying purpose of the sales, which will continue for at least the rest of the year, Mr. Kramer, who headed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Economic and Scientific Section during the war, declared:

"There is no more tragic problem that affects the whole race than that of the displaced persons. It is also the basic human problem which the United States has chosen to close its eyes to. Here is a minute way in which Americans can make a small contribution to a great people."

Among those serving on the Merchandising Committee with Mr. Kramer are Bernard Gimbel, president of Gimbel Bros.; Victor Hammer of Hammer Galleries; Joseph Kasper, president of Associated Merchandising Corporation; Fred Lazarus, president of Federated Department Stores; Edwin Marks of R. H. Macy & Co.; Robert McKim, president of Associated Dry Goods; Edward Mitten, president of Jordan Marsh; B. Earl Puckett, president of Allied Stores Corporation, and William O. Riordan Sr., president of Stern Brothers.

Having offered its services to the Committee free of charge, the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell is acting as counsel; Price Waterhouse & Co. is serving as auditor, and the Globe Shipping Company has functioned as customs brokers.

In addition to the disposal of tangible goods the Liquidation Committee has had in its possession a number of foreign securities of undetermined value. Lists of these securities were sent to Carl M. Loeb Rhoades & Co. for Kuhn Loeb & Co.

A spokesman for the former company revealed however, that for the most part the securities represented miscellaneous types of internal obligations of defunct foreign countries and probably had little recovery value.

First announcement that the Nazi loot would be disposed of in the United States was made last August with the information that the United States Military Government in Germany had turned over to representatives of the Preparatory Commission of the IRO the stolen property and records. Although demand in some Western European countries for the goods might have been greater than in the United States, the factors finally motivating the shipment were the European problems of import and currency restrictions as well as the desire to obtain hard currencies.

Other goods at Staten Island that might be included in the sale consisted of cameras, microscopes, lenses, about 4,000 oriental rugs, laces, tapestries, and thousands of other items.

tanks, and partly for economic purposes, including movement of Jewish displaced persons from Europe to Israel.

Dr. Weizmann disclosed plans to move Jewish D.P's from Germany and Austria to Israel as soon as possible at the rate of 15,000 a month. This, he said, would be a highly expensive operation for which American aid is requested.

"This sort of immigration is more difficult than it used to be before the war. When Jews came in before the war they used to have something to help themselves. Now they are destitute. It is infinitely more expensive than it used to be.

"That is a very serious problem which faces us almost immediately. These displaced persons have been in camps for several years and the American and French authorities are anxious to see them settled. We want to bring them in with dignity and honor."

Dr. Weizmann said he told the President that the question of action on the arms embargo was "urgent" and that the President "agreed". Regarding the prospects of a loan to Israel, Dr. Weizmann said:

"Mr. Truman said there shouldn't be any trouble about that because the Jews always pay their debts. That is true. We don't owe anybody anything, I believe."

He assailed Britain by alluding to the British-backed Trans- [illegible] by [illegible] and these people are trying to give it back to a vandalistic group."

Seventy-five persons paraded in front of the Avenue and Fiftieth Street, in protest against the policies of the British Government in the Middle East. The demonstration was sponsored by Americans for Haganah, Inc.

Meanwhile, the American Jewish Labor Council announced that more than 4,500 pints of blood for members of the fighting forces in Israel would be donated within the next three weeks by organized employees and farmers. The announcement said the blood will be given through the Red Mogen Dovid Blood Bank, 326 East Thirty-ninth Street.

BEAUTIFUL SHOREACRES BEACH -- Lake Simcoe

LESS THAN 40 MILES AWAY

Think what it would mean to you to be able to relax at ease with your family—swim in beautiful, clear waters—fish or cruise in your launch—less than 45 minutes after you turn the key in your office door!

That's what SHOREACRES BEACH offers you. There's a big, roomy lot waiting for your summer home in this lovely wooded wonderland. There's clean sand to loaf on—a winding navigable stream to boat on when the lake is rough. Building restrictions assure each all-weather cottage, bungalow or "dream-home" every sanitary convenience, including electricity for lighting and cooking—and water under pressure.

This is the ideal summer playground for you and your family—close enough to run up any evening—far enough away for a complete change from the city's smoke and grime to the tang of the pines.

Before making any plans, see what SHOREACRES has to offer. Make a point of visiting the property this week-end—its splendid beauty will enthrall you — the price of lots or cottages is surprisingly low.

FOUR COTTAGES COMPLETE IN EVERY DETAIL ARE AVAILABLE FOR IMMEDIATE POSSESSION.

For further particulars, phone LY. 5990.

To reach SHOREACRES BEACH, turn east on to the Gilford Road, 7 miles north of Bradford, on No. 11 Highway.
